Celebrating Pet-Friendly Travel

Road trip season may last well into fall this year, so if you are looking to hit the road with the whole family – pets included! – we’ve gathered tips, guidance and a whole lot of pet-friendly hotels and resorts around the U.S.

Before You Go

Before booking that pet-friendly trip, the American Veterinary Medical Association (AVMA) recommends travelers make sure their pet:

Is comfortable and physically able to travel

Has up-to-date ID tags and microchip

Is allowed in the accommodations you've booked

Has a portable kennel to stay in if you need to leave them in the accommodations unattended

Pet Travel Checklist

Packing for a pet is a bit different than packing for yourself! Here are a few items the AVMA wants to make sure are on every pet's packing list.

The basics like a collar, leash, portable kennel/crate, bed, blankets, toys, food and water bowls and any medications they're taking

A list of vets and emergency vet hospitals along your route and near your destination

Up-to-date medical records

Certificate of Veterinary Inspection (health certificate) and acclimation certificate, if needed by the state you're visiting

Your vet's contact info

Up-to-date ID info, plus a recent photo of your pet

First-aid kit for your pet

Flying with Pets

If you want to fly with your pet, it's very important to check with the airline first, as many have breed and size restrictions, plus more rules to follow and documentation requirements. We've gathered links below to some airlines' pet policies.
